Friends of Science Society is a non-profit organization created to educate the public and policy makers on climate science, policy and economics. Our operational funds are from Memberships and Donations. Your support allows us to disseminate relevant, balanced and objective scientific and economic information on climate change, and to support real environmental. We do not represent any industry sector.

We are not a charity. We do not issue charitable tax receipts.

Friends of Science Society requires the above information to process memberships and to ensure that our membership list is current. We will also use your information to provide you with updates or information on events, society activities and publications.
